“29A. (1) No citizen shall be denied admission into any educational institution maintained by the State or receiving aid out of the State funds and which is meant for public in general. etc.

4. For article 45 of the Constitution, the following article shall be substituted, namely:—

"45. (1) The State shall, within a period of five years from the commencement of the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1993, take steps in the direction of—

(a) making it compulsory of all children to attend school till they complete their secondary school level education;

(b) eradication of illiteracy in the country;

(c) introduction of compulsory professional courses in the syllabus of classes sixth to tenth in all schools recognised by the State;

(d) prohibition on employment of children till they attain the age of eighteen years or till they complete the secondary school education, whichever is later;

(e) enacting a law providing for strict penal action against any employer who employs any such child as is referred to in clause (d); and

(f) provision of financial assistance and such other incentives to the parents of such children, as the State may deem fit for discouraging the parents from sending their children, referred to in clause (d), for employment.

(2) The State shall take effective steps to open adequate number of schools and create necessary infrastructure for ensuring free and compulsory education to all children till they complete secondary school level education.”.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Although our country has completed forty-six years of independence yet the national goals of providing free and compulsory education to all children and eradication of illiteracy have not been achieved. The Constitution of India guarantees the citizens to enjoy certain fundamental rights and lays down certain Directive Principles of State Policy to be followed by the State for the welfare of its citizens. But, unfortunately, even after forty-six years of independence, a large section of our society does not even know the rights they enjoy under the Constitution because of illiteracy. For enabling the country to go forward in the post-independence era, the founding fathers of the Constitution incorporated the provision of free and compulsory education in the chapter on Directive Principles of State Policy.

The Bill, therefore, attempts to remove illiteracy to provide free and compulsory secondary education to all children and to make the principle of providing free and compulsory education more effective in order to achieve the goals of total literacy and free education.

Hence this Bill.

ANKUSHRAO RAOSAHEB TOPE.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill provides that the State shall provide to all citizens free education upto the secondary school level. Clause 4 provides that the State shall, within a period of five years from the commencement of the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1993, take steps in the direction of providing financial assistance and such other incentives to the parents of such children, as the State may deem fit. A large section of the citizens in the country are poor and implementation of these provisions would require a lot of expenditure as adequate number of schools and educational institutions would have to be opened and many poor children would have to be given incentives in order to ensure their regular attendance in the schools. As regards the expenditure by the States, some assistance will have to be provided by the Central Government to the States for carrying out the purposes of this Bill.

The Bill, therefore, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is likely to involve a recurring expenditure of about rupees two hundred crore per annum.

It is also likely to involve a non-recurring expenditure of rupees five hundred crore.

BILL NO. 110 OF 1993

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fourth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1993.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. In article 15 of the Constitution, in clause (4)

(i) for the words "any socially and educationally backward classes of citizens or for the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes", the words "any identifiable social group which is politically under-represented in the legislatures or educationally and economically backward as compared to the national average or which is subject to social discrimination or social disability in any form" shall be substituted; and

(ii) the following provisos shall be added at the end, namely:—

"Provided that the benefit under this clause available to any backward social group at any level shall be in proportion to both its population at that level and its level of backwardness, as determined decennially;

Provided further that in selecting the individual beneficiaries from within a backward social group, the individuals who belong to families whose educational or economic level is lower than the level of the social group as a whole shall receive priority."

3. In article 16 of the Constitution, in clause (4), for the words "any backward class of citizens", the words "any identifiable social group" shall be substituted..

Amendment of article
160.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Article 15(4) and 16 (4) of the Constitution provide for protective discrimination in favour of backward classes. However, its phraseology has given rise to much confusion as well as to injustice in as much as other social groups, which are equally backward in economic, educational and social terms, have been deprived of the benefits under this dispensation. The use of the word 'class' has also been misinterpreted. What was intended was to assess whether an identifiable social group is backward in relation to the nation or the people of the State as a whole and then take appropriate steps to lift it out of backwardness by concentrating convergent measures for its uplift. The term social backwardness has also caused much confusion. There is no doubt that there are some social groups which are subjected to social disabilities but in a progressive society any group which is educationally and economically backward is likely to face social degradation. As the situation is not static and therefore, the backwardness has to be assessed objectively at periodical intervals within certain well-defined parameters so that any social group which is found to be above the backwardness line should no longer come under the purview of protective discrimination and if any social group is found to have fallen below the backwardness line, it should be entitled to the protection and to promotional measures.

It is proposed that political under-representation, educational backwardness as well as economic backwardness and social disabilities should be decennially assessed objectively in respect of any identifiable social group, whatever its identity, which claims to be backward and, therefore, entitled to protection and promotional measures. However, the quantum of benefit should be related in case of any social group not only to its population, but also to its level of backwardness.

It is also proposed that in selecting individual beneficiaries from within a social group which is assessed to be backward and therefore entitled to reservation, the individuals who come from backward families should be given priority over the advanced families of the same group.

In relation to article 16(4), it is proposed that in the interest of social justice, every effort should be made to ensure that all social groups have due representation in public employment. When all social groups in the country are assured of their due share, it is bound to have a healthy influence on the national society, to its feeling of unity and solidarity.

Hence this Bill.

The Government of India signed the instrument of decisions arrived at the Convention on December 11, 1992.

The object of the Bill is to give effect to the declarations of the Convention on the Rights of the Child, to the extent possible in Indian context.

BILL No. 102 OF 1993

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fourth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1993.

Substitution of new article for article 285. 2. For article 285 of the Constitution, the following article shall be substituted, namely:—

“285. Parliament may by law authorise a State or any local authority within that State to levy any tax on any property of the Union subject to such conditions or limitations as may be prescribed by such law.

Explanation.—In this article “local authority” means any municipality, municipal corporation, district-board, panchayat or any such other local authority by whatever name called.”

Tax on property of the Union by a State or local authority.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

At present, a number of Public Sector Undertakings belonging to the Central Government, departmental organisations, Railways, Defence installations etc. own vast properties in Corporation, Municipal and Panchayat areas all over the country. These properties of the Central Government are exempted from being taxed by the local self Government authorities under article 285 of the Constitution. Although, the infrastructure of the local self Government authorities are fully utilised by the Public Sector undertakings and Departmental Organisations, they do not pay any taxes on property, as in the case of other property owners. This anomaly requires to be removed.

The Bill seeks to authorise the local self Government authorities to levy taxes on the properties of the Central Government.

BILL No. 97 OF 1993

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fourth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1993. —

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

Amendment of Seventh Schedule.

2. In the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution,—

(i) in List II-State List, after entry 10, the following entry shall be inserted, namely:—

“11. Education, including technical education, medical education and universities, subject to the provisions of entries 63, 64, 65 and 66 of List I; vocational and technical training of labour.”; and

(ii) in List III-Concurrent List, entry 25 shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The founding father of the Constitution included 'Education' in the State List after much deliberations. It continued to remain in the State List till 1975-76.

'Education', however, was transferred to Concurrent List by the enactment of the Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act, 1976 i.e. during the Emergency.

Although, by the Forty-fourth Amendment of the Constitution, certain undemocratic features introduced by the Forty-second Amendment were done away with, 'Education' continued to remain in the Concurrent List.

The democratic student and youth movement in our country, a wide segment of the educationists in our country and progressive public opinion have consistently held the view that 'Education' should be a State subject in order to enable the State Governments to formulate appropriate policies and programmes for the widest dissemination of education in keeping with the hopes and aspirations of the people of the States which alone can ensure the rapid cultural development of the Indian people as a whole.

The Union Government have not shown adequate interest in the matter of spread of education. Although, the widest segments of the student and teaching community have demanded 10 per cent, allocations in the Plan expenditures for education, the actual allocation in the plans did never exceed 25 per cent. of the total Plan allocations. This reveals the apathy of the Plan framers towards education. Education admittedly is the key to the success of the Plan. It is all the more disturbing to note that average per head expenditure on education by the Union Government comes to only 4 paise. West Bengal, which is genuinely interested in the spread as well as the improvement of standard of education, made budgetary allocation of Rs. 418 crores for education for the year 1983-84 despite severe limitation of resources. This means expenditure of Rs. 73 per head on education in West Bengal.

In view of the above, the education should be reverted back to the State List, in tune with the federal spirit of the Constitution, and to correct the distortions caused by the Forty-second Amendment of the Constitution.

Hence this Bill.

(ii) entry 17A shall be omitted;

(iii) for entry 25, the following entry shall be substituted, namely:—

“25 Vocational and technical training of labour.”.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act was a severe blow to the concept of Parliamentary democracy. The distortions caused by the said amendment Act in the Constitution of our country need to be corrected.

Lok Sabha with that object in view passed the Constitution (Forty-fourth Amendment) Bill.

The Rajya Sabha in its wisdom made certain amendments in the Constitution (Forty-fourth Amendment) Bill as passed by Lok Sabha. Lok Sabha accepted those amendments. The distortions which crept into the Constitution as a consequence of the Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act, therefore, continue to remain. It is felt necessary to erase those distortions at the earliest opportunity.

This Bill seeks to achieve the removal of those distortions.

NEW DELHI;

November 16, 1993.

CHITTA BASU

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Sub-clause (a) of clause 5 of the Bill seeks to insert an additional proviso in clause (2) of article 368 of the Constitution. This proviso provides for a requirement as to approval by the people of India at a referendum with respect to amendments of the nature specified therein. According to the amendments proposed in sub-clause (b) of clause 5, Parliament may from time to time by law make provision with respect to the matters relating to, or in connection with, such referenda, including the preparation of the rolls of voters. The holding of a referendum for the aforementioned purposes will involve expenditure. The expenditure which will be involved will depend upon the provisions which Parliament may make with respect to such referenda.

However, as the steps involved in holding a referendum such as the preparation of the rolls of voters, the conduct of the poll etc. are similar to those involved in general elections to Lok Sabha, the expenditure which a referendum would involve would be approximately the same as that involved in the conduct of general elections to Lok Sabha. On this basis, it is estimated that the expenditure on the preparation of the rolls of voters will be approximately Rs. 10 crores and on the conduct of a referendum will be approximately Rs. 30 crores. In the case of general elections, half of the expenditure on the preparation of the rolls of voters is shared by the State Governments. However, if the rolls of voters are revised and prepared for the purpose of a referendum only, the full expenditure on that account will be borne by the Central Government. Thus the total expenditure in respect of each referendum is likely to be to the tune of Rs. 40 crores, as a rough estimate. This expenditure will be of a recurring nature as the same will have to be incurred on each occasion when a referendum becomes necessary. Having regard to the nature of amendments which require to be approved at a referendum, the possibility of any such amendments being initiated is very remote. Further, the electoral rolls maintained for purposes of elections to Lok Sabha can be utilised for the purposes of the referendum. If a referendum is held in the same year in which a general elections takes place, the electoral rolls will not require much revision and as such, there will be no expenditure on the revision and preparation of the electoral rolls on such referendum. If, however, the referendum is held simultaneously with the General Elections, the additional expenditure, which would be incurred, will be negligible. The law which Parliament may make with respect to matters relating to referenda will no doubt take into account the various factors which will help in reducing the expenditure on account of referenda. There will be no non-recurring expenditure.

BILL NO. 112 OF 1993

- (a) the Scheduled Tribes, namely, "Mikir" shall be known as "Karbi"

Removal of doubts.

3. For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that every certificate issued to a member belonging to any Scheduled Caste or as the case may be, Scheduled Tribe immediately before the commencement of this Act under any of the Orders referred to in section 2 shall be deemed to have been issued under such Order as amended by this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Some entries in the lists of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes notified in various Presidential orders have been the subject of criticism on the ground that the names of certain Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe communities or sub-sects thereof included in these lists sound derogatory because of their disrespectful or undignified connotations. There has been considerable resentment amongst the concerned communities or sub-sects thereto. The Joint Committee on the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Orders) Amendment Bill, 1967 had also recommended the change in the names which sound derogatory. In deference to these sentiments, the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes Orders (Amendment) Bill, 1989 was introduced in the Lok Sabha on 12 October 1989 to change their names with more acceptable ones. The Bill was discussed and passed by the Lok Sabha on 13 October 1989. However, before it could be taken up in the Rajya Sabha, the Eighth Lok Sabha was dissolved for General Elections and the Bill lapsed in terms of article 107(5) of the Constitution of India. It is therefore, necessary to revive the lapsed Bill.

The Bill seeks to achieve the above object.

RAM NAIK

BILL NO. 108 OF 1993

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fourth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1993.

Amendment of article
324.

2. In article 324 of the Constitution,—

(i) for clause (2), the following clauses shall be substituted, namely:—

“(2) The Election Commission] shall consist of three Election Commissioners.

(2A) The appointment of the Election Commissioners shall be made by the President on the recommendation of a Committee consisting of the Prime Minister, the Leader of the Opposition and the Chief Justice of India:

Provided that the appointment of every Election Commissioner shall be subject to the approval of both the Houses of Parliament;

Provided further that an Election Commissioner shall hold office until he attains the age of sixty-five years.”;

(ii) for clause (3), the following clause shall be substituted namely:—

"(3) One of the Election Commissioners shall act as the Chairman of the Election Commission by annual rotation in alphabetical order.";

(iii) in clause (5), for the existing provisos, the following provisos shall be substituted, namely:—

"Provided that an Election Commissioner shall not be removed from his office except in like manner and on the like grounds as a Judge of the Supreme Court and the conditions of service of the Election Commissioners shall not be varied to their disadvantage after their appointment:

Provided further that a Regional Commissioner shall not be removed from office except on the recommendation of the Chairman of the Election Commission"; and

(iv) for clause (6), the following clause shall be substituted, namely:—

"(6) The President or the Governor of a State shall when so requested by the Election Commission, make available to the Election Commission or to a Regional Commissioner such staff of various categories, in such strength and for such period as may be considered necessary by all concerned after mutual consultation for the discharge of the functions conferred on the Election Commission by clause (1):

Provided that the Election Commission may, at the conclusion of the deputation advise the controlling authority concerned to take disciplinary action against a member of the staff on deputation for such acts of omission or commission as may come to its notice.".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Over the last 40 years some ambiguities in article 324 have come to notice which have not only strained relations between the Election Commission on the one hand, and the Central and the State Governments on the other, but have caused unseemly situations which have brought down the dignity of the Commission in the public eye.

Democracy depends on free and fair elections which can only be ensured by an independent and impartial Election Commission. However, the increase of the electorate and the frequency of mid-term elections as well as the slow but steady criminalisation of the political process have added to the work of the Election Commission. It is, therefore, essential to have more than one Election Commissioner who shall be equal and take important decisions generally by consensus and unanimity after mutual consultation and equitably share the load of the work.

A tradition should be established that an Election Commissioner shall not accept any other appointment after retirement. This is sought to be achieved by extending the age limit to 65.

There is some ambiguity regarding the deputation of necessary staff for election work. Since Government machinery cannot be halted during the election, the quantum of staff required for election work should be decided not unilaterally by the Election Commission but by mutual consultation with the Central and the State Governments as the case may be. This particularly applies to the maintenance of law and order during the election. While the security of the polling booths must be under the control of the Election Commission, the general maintenance of law and order in the constituency must remain the responsibility of the State Government. But the latter must give due consideration to the advice of the Election Commission in this regard.

Another point that has arisen is with regard to the disciplinary control by the Election Commission on the staff made available to it for election work. If any delinquency, negligence of duty or partiality comes to the notice of the Election Commission, such acts of omission and commission must be taken note of and reported to the controlling authority and the latter must initiate disciplinary proceedings against the officer adversely reported upon. For obvious reason because the period of deputation is very brief, the Election Commission itself should not initiate disciplinary proceedings award a penalty. Of course it is competent to return the services of an officer or staff to the controlling authority, if he finds him unfit or unequal to the situation.

What is important is that through mutual consultation, a proper balance should be achieved between the democratic imperative of safeguarding the independence and impartiality of the electoral process and the wisdom of not straining the relationship to the point of disruption.

Hence this Bill.

A non-recurring expenditure to the tune of rupees ten lakh is also likely to be involved.

Prohibition of slaughter
of cow.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 4 of the Bill provides that no person shall sell or offer for sale or cause to be sold beef products in any form except for such medicinal purposes as may be prescribed. The delegation of legislative power is of normal character, as the matters to be prescribed are of detail only.

BILL No. 107 OF 1993

A Bill further to amend the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fourth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title
and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Land Acquisition (Amendment) Act, 1993.

(2) It extends to the whole of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

Amendment of section
11.

2. In section 11 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act), for the words, figures and brackets "at the date of publication of the notification under section 4, sub-section (1)", the words "at the date of the acquisition" shall be substituted.

1 of 1894.

Amendment of
23.

3. In section 23 of the principal Act, in sub-section (1) for the words, figures and brackets "at the date of the publication of the notification under section 4, sub-section (1)", the words "at the date of the acquisition" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Section 23 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, enjoins that in determining the amount of compensation for land to be acquired under the Act, the Court shall take into account the market value of land on the date of publication of notification under section 4 of the Act. When the intervening period between the date of notification and the date of acquisition is long, the compensation which the owner is entitled to is wholly insufficient to buy an equivalent area of land with similar advantages. Our aim should be to pay a fair and reasonable price for land to be acquired. To pay a price much below the market price prevailing on the date of acquisition is undoubtedly unfair and unreasonable. The Law Commission has also recommended that as far as possible everyone who is deprived of his property by compulsory acquisition should be awarded a compensation so as to place him in substantially the same position in which he was before the acquisition.

Hence the Bill.

NEW DELHI;

KASHIRAM RANA

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clauses 2 and 3 of the Bill provide for payment of compensation to person's, whose land has been acquired, at the rates prevailing on the date of actual acquisition of such land. The Bill, if enacted, will no doubt involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India, but an estimate of such expenditure cannot be given at present. The expenditure will depend on factors such as land which may have to be acquired in various measures. This factor cannot be determined now.

BILL No. 5 or 1994

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fifth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1994.

Short title and commencement.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. In article 15 of the Constitution, after clause (4), the following clause shall be inserted, namely:—

Amend-
ment of
article 15.

“(5) Nothing in this article or in clause (2) of article 29 shall prevent the State from making any special provision for the advancement of any economically backward class of citizens from amongst socially and educationally advanced classes of citizens.”.

3. In article 16 of the Constitution, after clause (4), the following clause shall be inserted, namely:—

Amend-
ment of
article 16.

“(4A) Nothing in this article shall prevent the State from making any provision for the reservation of ten per cent. of appointments or posts in favour of economically backward class of citizens from amongst socially and educationally advanced classes of citizens.”.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Under the powers conferred by the Constitution, provisions have been made for the reservation of appointments or posts in all Government services for the people belonging to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. In the same manner, reservations to the extent of twenty-seven per cent. have also been made for the people belonging to socially and educationally backward classes by way of implementing the recommendations of the Mandal Commission. However, there is no provision for the reservation of posts or appointments for those youths, though belonging to forward classes, who are economically backward. This has caused wide-spread resentment amongst them. There is no provision in the Constitution for making reservation of posts or appointments for economically backward citizens. So, it is necessary to amend the Constitution to provide for reservation for economically backward class of citizens.

BILL No. 4 or 1994

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fifth, Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1994.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint,

2. In article 324 of the Constitution,—

(3) after sub-section (2), the following proviso shall be inserted, namely:—

"Provided that the number of other Election Commissioners which may be appointed under this clause shall not be more than two."

Short title and commencement.

Amendment of article 324.

(ii) for sub-section(3), the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely:—

“(3) the status of the Chief Election Commissioner and other Election Commissioners, if so appointed, shall be equal:

Provided that the Chief Election Commissoner shall act as the Chairman of the Election Commission.”;

(iii) after sub-section (3), the following sub-section shall be inserted, namely:—

“(3A) In case of difference of opinion on any matter amongst the members of the Election Commission, the majority opinion shall prevail.”; and

(iv) in sub-section (5),—

(a) in the first proviso, after the words “Chief Election Com-missioner”, wherever they occur, the words “and other Election Commissioners” shall be inserted;

(b) for the second proviso, the following proviso shall be substituted, namely:—

“Provided further that any Regional Commissioner shall not be removed from office except on the recommendation of the Election Commission.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Election Commission is an important Constitutional Institution. The Indian Parliamentary democracy is based on fair and free elections. All the liabilities pertaining to elections vest in the Election Commission. Chief Election Commissioner is the head of the Commission but the status of the other Election Commissioners, who can also be appointed, is not lower than his status. The Supreme Court had also given a decision that if the Chief Election Commissioner and Election Commissioners differ in opinion, then the opinion of the majority shall prevail. But lately the Supreme Court has issued an interim order contrary to the earlier decision in which it has held that if the Chief Election Commissioner and other Election Commissioners differ in opinion, then the decision of the Chief Election Commissioner shall prevail. By this decision the position of the two new Election Commissioners appointed recently has become like advisers only and thus the purpose of making the Election Commission a multimember Commission is not being met fully. Therefore, it is necessary that a clear provision should be made for this by amending the Constitution of India.

BILL No. 3 OF 1994.

A Bill further to amend the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-fifth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title and commencement

1. (1) This Act may be called the Representation of the People (Amendment) Act, 1994.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

Amendment of section
30.

2. In section 30 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

43 of 1951.

(i) in clause (a), for the words “seventh day”, the words “fifth day” shall be substituted; and

(ii) for clause (d), the following clause shall be substituted, namely:—

“(d) the date on which a poll shall, if necessary, be taken shall be a date not earlier than the fifteenth day after the last date for the withdrawal of candidatures; and”.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The election process in our country is too lengthy. The Government machinery also keeps itself engaged in election process for a long period as a result of which all its functions come to a stand still. The period of seven days for filing of nominations is too long. It is proposed to reduce the period from seven days to five days.

The period available for canvassing by candidates is too long as a result of which the expenditure to be incurred by the Government and candidates has increased manifold. Unfair means are adopted by candidates. It is proposed to reduce the canvassing period from twenty days to fifteen days. It has been observed that elections are held on more than one day in many States. It is, therefore, necessary to hold the poll on a single day so as to minimise the expenditure and to prevent the use of unfair means by the candidates.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Patna University is the oldest and prestigious University of the State of Bihar. It was established in 1917. The founders of the Patna University had always thought of it as a centre where youth of the country would be trained, equipped and prepared for discharging different responsibilities of life. It has played an important role in the fields of education, politics, social life and administration of the country.

The Central Government had sent certain proposals to Bihar Government in the past for the conversion of Patna University into a Central University. But due to various reasons those proposals could not be implemented. Hence, it is proposed to convert the existing Patna University into a Central University.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Even after 47 years of Independence, the Union Territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands has not been provided with a democratic set-up with a Legislative Assembly for the governance of the affairs of the Union territory Administration. All powers are vested in the Lieutenant Governor and the bureaucracy continues to reign supreme. In the absence of a Legislative Assembly with devolution of powers, the people of the Islands are not enabled to have a sense of belonging and involvement in the developmental activities of the Islands and do not have a say in the utilisation of the funds provided by the Central Government in proper perspective.

The type of Pradesh Council provided to the Union territory with members indirectly elected from panchayats and a single municipality with no powers is not at all befitting to a democratic set-up and devolution of powers. However, the functioning of the Pradesh Council for the last twelve years since its formation in the year 1981 has set the background for constitution of a Legislative Assembly on the pattern of Pondicherry or Delhi. The population of the Union territory has crossed three-lakh mark and the literacy percentage is more than 81 per cent and heading towards achieving cent per cent literacy as per norms prescribed by the Government of India.

There have been series of demands from the people of the Union Territory for providing a Legislative Assembly atleast with limited powers. The Island Development Authority had agreed in principle to constitute a Legislative Assembly for the Islands. The Estimates Committee of the Parliament had also recommended for the constitution of a Legislative Assembly for the Union territory. Now, since a three-tier Panchayati Raj system is also in the offing in pursuance of the Constitution (Seventy-third) Amendment Act with the idea of devolution of powers at panchayat, block and district levels, it is hightime that a Legislative Assembly was provided to set the tone and direction for the governance of the Union territory Administration on democratic norms.

The Bill seeks to achieve the aforesaid objectives.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill provides for setting up of a Legislative Assembly for the Union territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands. Clauses 7(5), 19 and 43(3) relate to payment of salaries and allowances to the Speaker, the Deputy Speaker, Members of the Legislature and the Ministers. The expenditure on such salaries and allowances and other expenditure of incidental nature such as on the additional staff in the Legislative Assembly and Council of Ministers will be met from the Consolidated Fund of the Union territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands.

Clause 33 provides for the delimitation of thirty single member territorial constituencies for the proposed Assembly of the Union territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands. For this purpose, a non-recurring expenditure of about rupees twenty lakhs is likely to be incurred. This expenditure will be met from the Consolidated Fund of India.

The Bill does not involve any other expenditure whether of a recurring or non-recurring nature.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 33 of the Bill empowers the Legislative Assembly of the Union territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands to make rules, subject to the provisions of this Bill, for regulating its procedure and conduct of its business. It also provides that the Lieutenant Governor shall, after consultation with the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly and with the approval of the President, make rules for securing the completion of financial business, regulating the procedure and conduct of business in the Legislative Assembly in relation to any financial matter or to any Bill for appropriation of monies out of the Consolidated Fund of the Union territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands and for prohibiting the discussion of or asking any question which affect the discharge of the functions of the Lieutenant Governor in so far as he is required to act in his discretion.

Clause 44 of the Bill empowers the President to make rules regarding allocation of business to Ministers and transaction of such business. It further empowers the Lieutenant Governor to make rules prohibiting the manner of authenticating the orders issued in his name.

Clauses 46(3) and 47(3) of the Bill provide that the Lieutenant Governor may make rules regarding the custody, etc., of the Consolidated Fund of the Union territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands and the Contingency Fund of the Union territory of Andaman and Nicobar Islands.

Clause 52 of the Bill empowers the President to issue orders for removing any difficulty in giving effect to the provisions of this Bill and in particular in relation to the constitution of the Legislative Assembly.

The matters mentioned above are of a procedural nature and it is difficult to provide for them in detail in the Bill itself. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.

Secretary-General.
